Department of Juvenile Services Statement of Need Questions

1. Why does the education have to be on-site rather than with supports in a school setting? Is an alternative plan a possibility?

In a staff-secure program, educational services are provided onsite as part of the overall structure designed to ensure safety, supervision, and consistent therapeutic support. Programs can partner with other group homes to provide educational services. The on-site education component is essential to maintaining the level of security and individualized support needed for youth in staff-secure care.
